

BJ

aka BlackJack

If you KNOW and APPRECIATE the demeanor of a GERMAN SHEP, then BJ might be the boy for you; although, we think he MAY have some border collie in his DNA too. This handsome dude is neutered, 52lbs, will be 6yrs in MAY, , fully vaccinated, heartworm negative, flea/tick free, house trained, and crate trained. His behavior is typical of the GS breed: protective of his home, his yard, his family, independent yet very loyal. BJ enjoys just hanging /relaxing with his family nearby on his very comfortable bed or in his crate, or spending time outside with the family monitoring the fence line intermittently.

If you are you searching for a furry friend and companion that is loyal, attentive, dances with joy every morning he sees you. BJ is very routine oriented, excellent car rider, enjoys walks, or just meandering in the yard with you ? BJ is very smart with a loving and attentive demeanor, and his nature is to protect what he loves: his home, his yard, his caretakers. He seems to trust women more easily than men. His JOY and CONTENTMENT comes from being with his human companion and his toys. He loves chewing on his bonebones, playing with his stuffed toys, keeping squirrels from his yard, resting in his crate OR beside his caretaker, and he has great recall when his "favorite cookie and/or praise" is given to him. This boy thrives on training and special treats that go with it. BJ would do best with a family of adults only or with an older female dog that is not interested or not bothered by his presence.

A fenced yard is required in order that BJ can enjoy the freedom of being outside "unchained"(since he was chained most of his life before he came to rescue).

BJ encountered trauma to his back end (we think 3 or 4 yrs ago -no recorded history came with BJ when he entered our rescue group in late 2021). Xrays indicate he has a partially shattered pelvis and displaced hip; he shows no disability while walking, playing, sleeping or chasing squirrels. The only PRESCRIPTION medication he requires is PROIN (to help manage his compromised bladder). Other supplements that BJ takes daily include: Joint supplements, anti-inflammatory/pain mgmt medication (CBD pet oil); for these reasons ONLY, BJ might be considered a "special needs" dog.
